

Since the signs may be indicating that a chromosphere discharge, strip tease, or skin shedding is approaching, this we have documented quite profusely in our book The Unity Keys Of Emmanuel, and have illustrated in seminars graphically since 1993, the significance of these events, together with the weather records that were broken in 1998, may pose prime significance. The ice records, and Moon geology, shows evidence for a regular 12,000 + year chromosphere cycle.

The Earth's field is massaged and blown by the the solar wind, affecting our weather, moods, communications, health, and fertility. Our satellites and radio communications disrupted.

By June 24th, the "Object's" trajectory is far from the sun, and is massive. As you will witness in part two of THE SUN GATE CONSPIRACY, we have been able to confirm Ptah's statement of more "Objects" by the sun, and what they appear to be doing to the solar surface, is maintaining and almost knitting the chromosphere into continuance, or so it would appear.

So when NASA "switched off" the SOHO probe, in June, it should not surprise us that it was exactly approaching this "Object", and the last photograph that was then made available to the public showed the "Object" depicted in the image captured to this paragraph, above, on June 24th. We will now explore this chronologically, so we can see the photograph trails of the evidence, which render clarity to the above phenomenon, and as we will see, again in 1999, even more apparent chromosphere massaging can be evidenced, with clear depictions of the "Objects".

Thus, by June the 10th, one of the "Objects" is again clearly discernible in the NASA SOHO photographic footage. Appearing to be releasing its own light. Once again, the Redshift astrophysical software, shows that there is no known "object" at the position of this 'anomaly'. Mars is left of the sun's equator, nowhere near the "Object", that looks like the little "Horus", that we now are quite familiar with.

The Egyptians spoke of our sun RA, having a child, or companion 'Little Horus'. The Falcanelli scientists had speculated that this was thus the emergence of the 'Baby-Horus', which had previously been too close to the sun, and in an orbit to the sun, as to not have been detectable. Emmanuel, in September 1989 had told me and a small group in Amsterdam, that there was a hidden object near-to the sun, which alternately would become visible, and that it had a multi-dimensional nature to it. And the Faclaneli group of research scientists and initiates (alchemists) claim to be having physical contact with Emmanuel, since early 1998.

What is interesting in light of this hypothesis, is the fact that MIT's astronomer team, headed by Dr. Aldpine had made calculations, already back in 1982, that our sun had to have another sun.

Professor Aldpine, had discovered that nearby Pulsors were showing an influence from the mass of our solar system, that was greater than the mass our solar system at present has. Unless it had another sun. They had speculated that this sun must be an unexpanded sun, or baby sun, and that our approaching conjunction with the galactic centre, had the gravitational pull of the galactic centre, pulling on this 2nd sun.

Hence, amidst this pathway of attractions, were the Pulsors which were being activated to a greater degree by these gravitational forces. So one could take a step from there, since the summer solstice of 1998 was the first actual solstice where our solar system was coming into the place of conjunction, which is only a complete conjunction on December 21st 2012.

That the exertion of the gravitational pull on our sun, and solar system helio-plane, had drawn the hidden sun, or the Egyptian's "Little-Horus": away from its big Papa Ra, the sun, and into a position whereby it could prepare to expand into a full sun. However, this alarming scenario, it can now be stated does not appear to be what is occurring. Furthermore, Dr. Aldpine had calculated that this second sun must have been one light day from our sun, and thereby in the outer solar system. Thereby, ruling out these equations in relationship to this "Object". Although the same influence still could account for an object being drawn from the sun, by the galactic centre gravitational influence.

But since this "Object" is not alone, and is behaving now, as if some form of intelligence of its own is steering it, as we shall see, it certainly is not behaving anymore as a proto-sun in formation, unless one would throw at it, that it is being steered by some form of hyperspatial intelligence. But with the evidence emerging of at least 4 other objects to join it, we are looking at something remarkable.

This does not discredit the Falcanelli group, for they did state that some form of "extraterrestrial" intelligence was stirring the 'Baby Horus', and that their vehicles were near to the sun, just as Ptah had relayed to me (from my own personal contacts with one of the associated initiates, a doctor, it appears they have contact with a similar group of extra temporal and extraterrestrial intelligences as I have, and hence I could decipher their Kabala system of coding as well. And since that time of correspondence with them, 1994-1995, they claim contact with Emmanuel (Immanuel), who they consider to be the highest intelligences in the universe (to me, in my contacts with Emmanuel, they claimed to be Inter-Universal, and thus not bound to any one universe or dimension)).

On the 11th of June, the "Object" is still evident, and now is hovering just in the upper field of a major Corona Mass Ejection. No planet in this position.

By the 14th of June it was still there, in place. As the attention of the public was thrown on the is object, NASA claimed it was the planet Mars, but when the astronomy catalogues pointed out that Mars was in another position, then NASA stated it was Mercury, Mercury too turned out to be at another position. And then the explanation was that two stars were crossing. Ignoring all of the previous misinterpretations, giving to the public by the global space experts, trained scientists who do not misidentify objects to massive and on such a space kindergarten level as the planets Mars and Mercury.

No proper apology or explanation to this misidentifications were ever given. And the star crossing episode also did not hold up, as by November the Object was still there, and it was moving at a faster speed than the two stars pointed too, even the light trick explanations did not hold up, and the object became visible with its light both IN FRONT of the sun (this was explained as a light affect, but then also disappearing BEHIND the sun, and emerging on the other side, rendering this public explanation into absurdity.

Never-the-less, these counter-explanations calmed public attention, for the public had one of several common explanations they could hold onto, and not question, since

NASA are the experts, and it was unlikely that the majority of the public interest would look at more than one of the explanations given. So easy it has been to massage the attraction factor of these "objects" away into near oblivion. But to the alert scientists, who were not concerned with losing their jobs or reputations, investigation continued, and those who did not want to lose their jobs, aided in leaking out more material and alerting others when to look for photographs at the LASCO SOHO internet site. This is an astonishing story, and it certainly is more than a Watergate, that is why we term it Sun Gate, and the PUN IS INTENDED.

Let us look and analyze the June 1998, Horus-Ra "object" and see what colour saturations levels reveals.

All that has been done here is that the "Object" has been zoomed and been brought out in colour saturations, where brighter areas are in lighter, and darker areas are in colour. A classic "flying saucer" shape seems apparent from this series of enhancements. And this appears to be a common trait to Horus-Ra, also in 1999 as you well see in Sun Gate 2.

A very beautiful "object", but the brightness coming from it, when one looks at the 256 colour pixels, is too bright for a reflecting material such as metal, it would appear to be releasing its own light.

As we enhance the Horus "Object", some remarkable criteria appear to leap out as well:

Especially in this June 12th 1998 image, taken at 1:44, with part of the "wing span" appearing to go behind the sun:

Then saturation and brightness contrast analysis on the zoomed up "object" with the 256 pixilated levels to play with, Horus appears remarkable, on close inspection:

In its heart, without the raying affect, appear to be yet another classic "flying saucer" shape, but again it gives of immense light, as if of its own. There is a pixel limit to accuracy, as you can see the jaggedness in this zoomed enhancement, but this form comes out in latter enhancements as well, with only some slight variations.

Then Redshift shows us that the planets Mercury and Mars are by the suns equator line, at 5.55 am. But where is the "Object".

As we can see the "Object is nowhere near the planets that are by the sun's equator, at 5.55 am.

Since it almost appears certain that this is not a planet, let us see what enhancement reveals in its shape:

Once again the classic "flying saucer" shape with only a slight variance the earlier enhancement.

It furthermore appears that just some 28 minutes earlier it had been at a considerable distance from the previous position, and even further than the planets. It thus could be ventured that this "Object" appears to have moved unnaturally fast. Let us see what enhancement does, to see if it has the same characteristics as before:

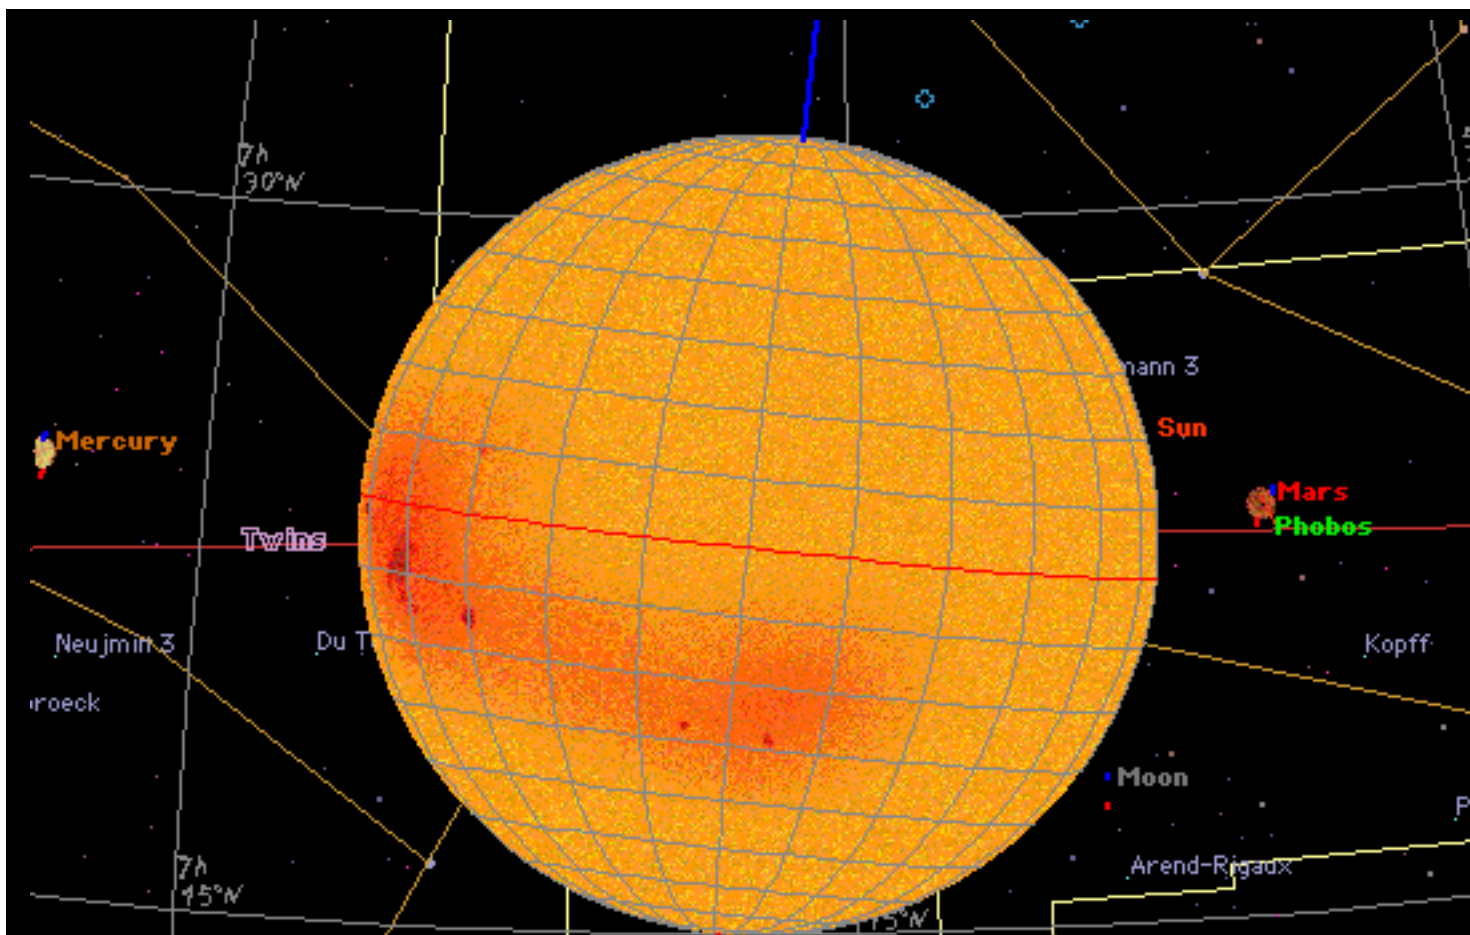

It appears to be the same. This is all a very tentative field, so it also may be a series of phenomenons, and this has to remain open, but it would appear to be unlikely with all that preceded it, and the vast material that lies ahead of it, including several shutdowns of the NASA SOHO probe itself, as it approached the "Object".

How does this all progress. At the last dawn of the summer solstice, June 23rd 1998, we see the "Object" at the upper top of the sun.

Redshift relays that Mars is on the right hand side of the sun, completely out of range, and there does appear to be a faint streak there, but nowhere near as bright and big as the "Object". And Mercury just above the equator line, is too small to be visible here, unless it would be the small light just below the equator line, but Redshift places it just above hat line. The "Object" is far above the equator, just above the coronal pole line.

Redshift shows that there is no known object by the coronal pole line. And once again let us see what several levels of enhancement reveals:

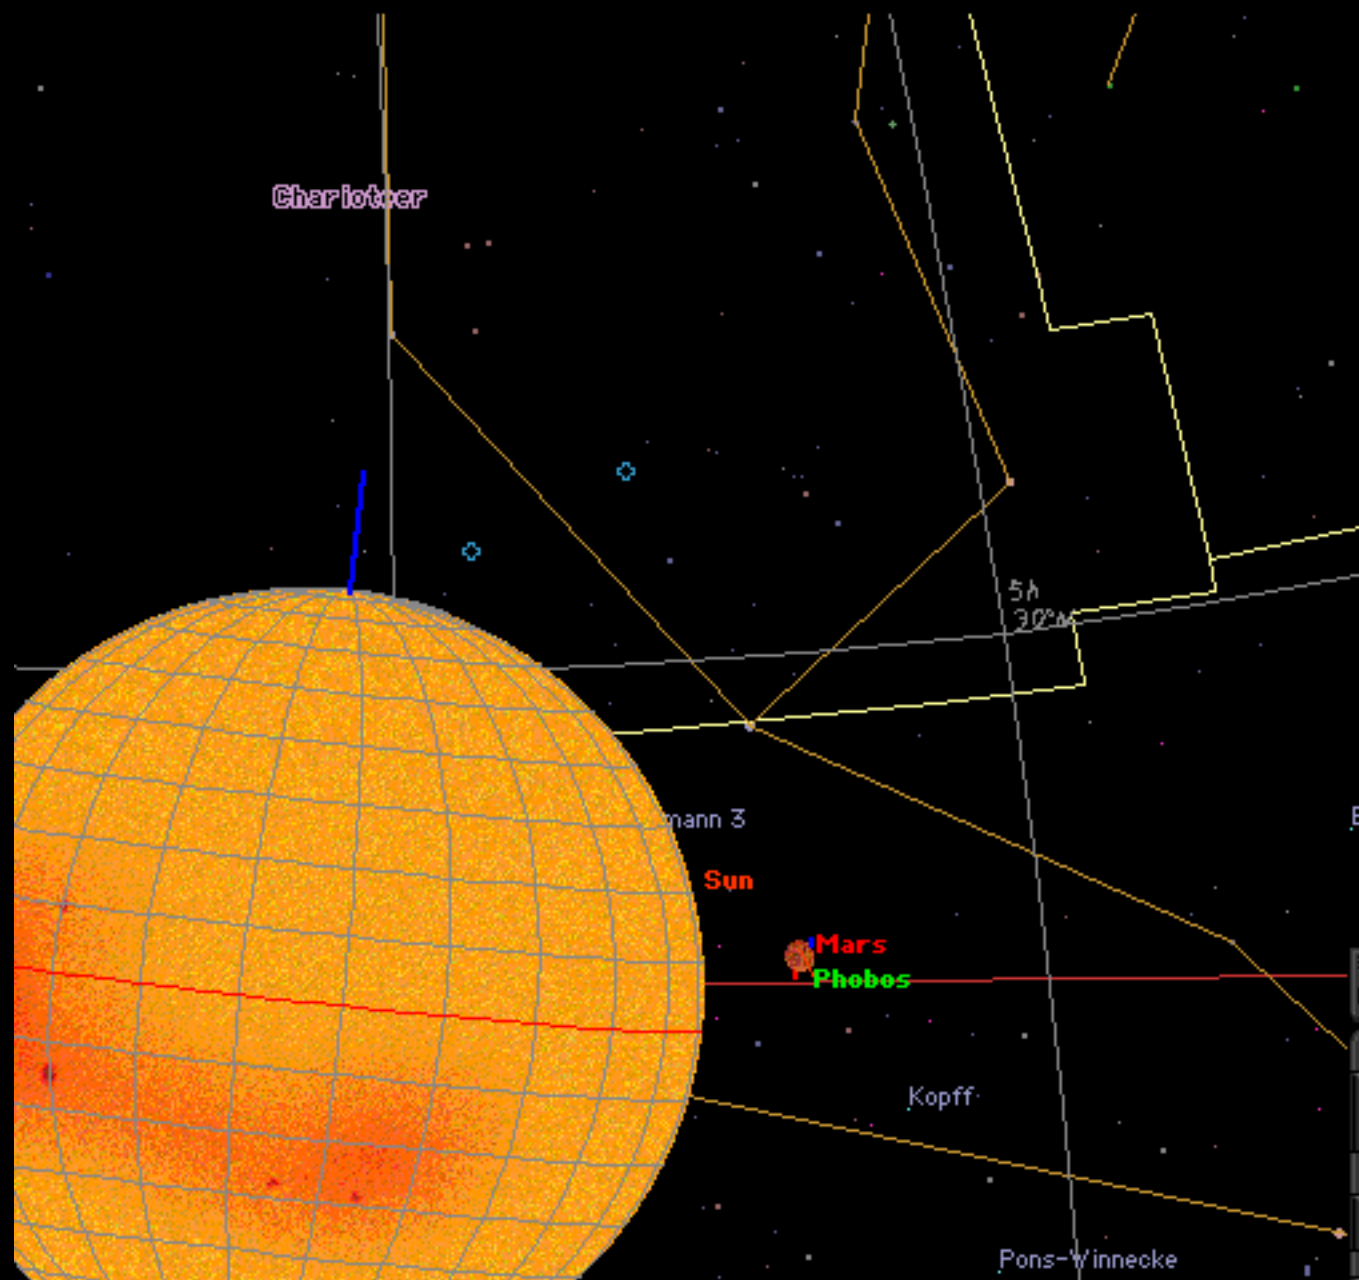

In the last sequence of photographs that the SOHO probe takes before it switches off, and there appears to be some evidence of a potential conspiracy here, as science writer and inventor of the NASA Pioneer probe message, reveals in clear detail in his excellent article, "Oh my God they killed SOHO".

By the 24th of June, the "Object" had once again moved remarkably fast from its previous position. In these few days and even in hours we see that it appears to be capable of travelling in hours, what take days for the planets.

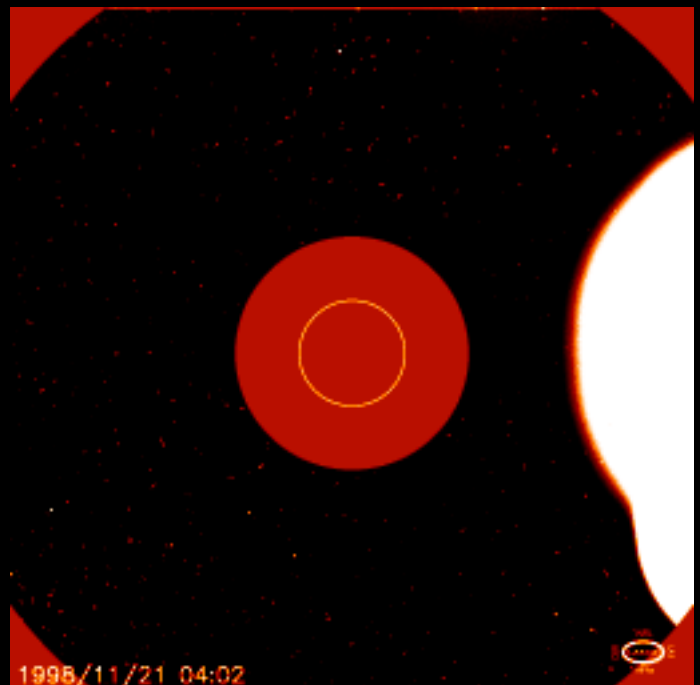

Most importantly Redshift reveals that there is no planet in this position, and it is very bright in this sight. Mars and Mercury are in the SAME positions as the day before, and there is absolutely no known object in the position of "Horus". As can clearly be seen at the same time as this Lasco photo, and a little latter, in the second, for Mercury.

near to the SOHO space probe, and lo and behold what do we see.

When SOHO is resurrected, and very stingy quantities of photographs are released to the public, another close encounter with the "Object" reveals the classic "flying saucer" shape. Yes it was still there in November, as the two photographs reveal below, but this will be covered extensively in SunGate 2.

For in conjunction with this "Object" the Earth was bombarded by very high levels of X-rays, as we shall see. And a new sound came from the sun, or the "Object" which you will hear in Part Two, and this also changed the sound of Earth, which you also will hear.

What is quite amusing is the diverse opinions given by different experts, here are two contrasting opinions, but both equally interesting: These comments were for the May 1998 images, which was, apparently when people started to notice them.

"Sorry, I don't know what the funny-looking object is. It is probably an object in the instrument, perhaps a calibration marker. It is not something in the sky. If it were, the IAU astronomers would have mentioned it and sent out notice to astronomers all over the world to get more observations. The funny object is at least an order of magnitude too large to be Saturn, provided everything in the photo is part of the same image and to the same scale.

"That object bothers me as being Saturn, because unless you purposely oriented the frame so that the rings were horizontal, Saturn's rings are not horizontal to the ecliptic, as far as I know. Secondly, the enlarged and enhanced image implies several separate nuclei, each separated by thinner streams of debris. These brighter objects outside the main object are too bright in my opinion to be rings. And the central object appears to be composed of several smaller objects either still joined or which have not separated a great distance from each other. In other words, what we may be looking at is something like Shumaker-Levi-9 after it was pulled apart by gravitational forces. And yet there does not seem to be a tail. But then again, Shumaker-Levi-9 did not have a tail either once the nucleus was pulled apart."

--Dr Bruce Cornet, PhD.

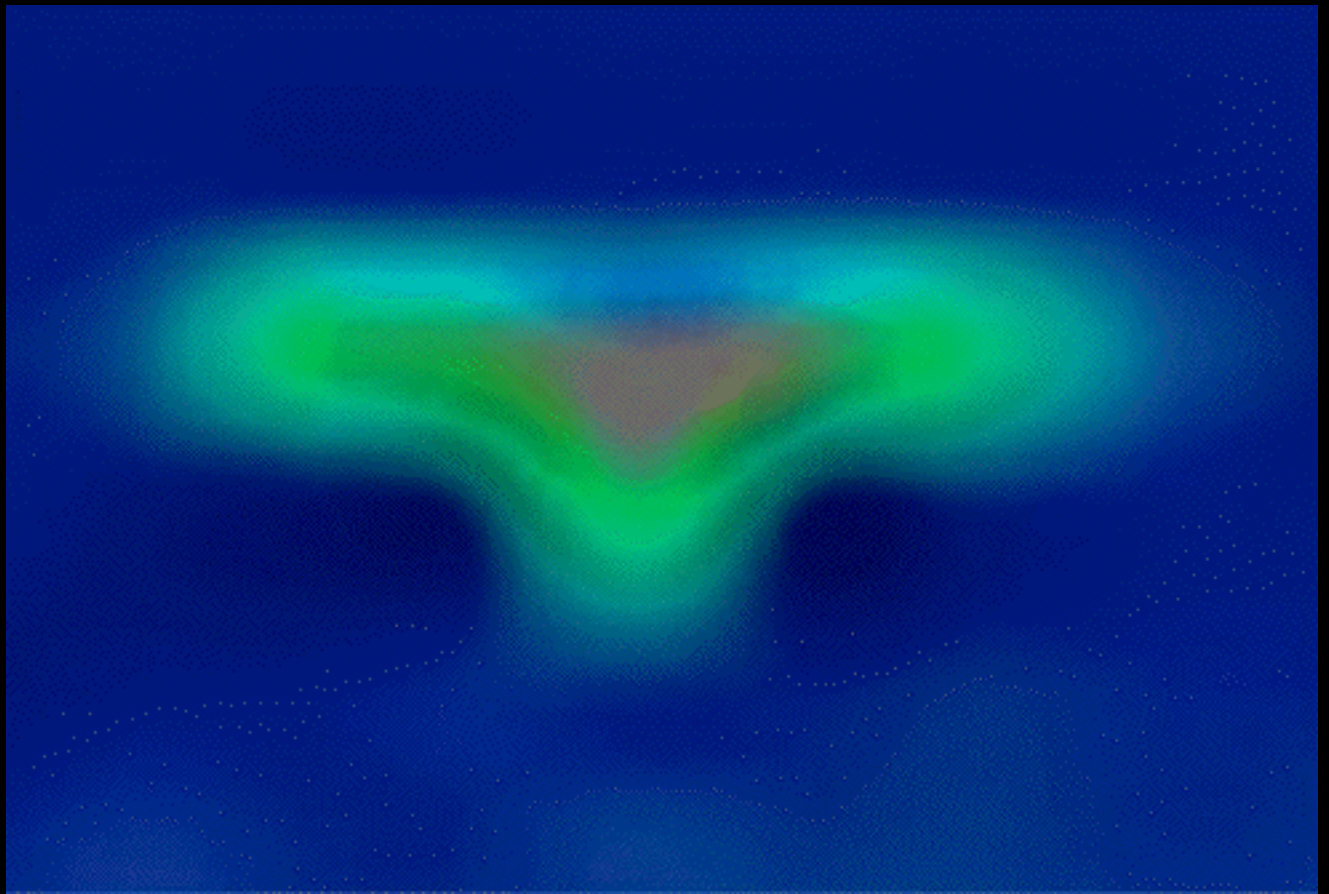

Conclusion. At least some of the "Horus" photographs will remain controversial, due to their closer proximity to the known planets. But some of the "Horus" pictures are appearing identically the same, without any evidence of there being any known planet or related object in its proximity.

What you will view in PART TWO, of this series is an astounding development to both these "Objects" and the third "Object" we called "Neith", as well as the dark sphere's. The "Objects" appear to exhibit unnatural speed, NASA denies the film defect, and relayed, based on one image that the "Object" is now a cosmic ray. Which is stretching the limits with each alternative explanation they are proliferating.

Something very remarkable appears to be going on around our sun, just as the sun is becoming the most active in many hundreds of years. Both the close up, and the desaturated blow up enhancements of both "Horus" and "Horus-Ra" reveals the disconcerting classic "flying saucer" shape. But this is just the beginning, for in part two so astounding new photographs are to be reviewed, right upto the almost present.

Whether some, or any of these "Objects", are related to the 5 vehicles that Ptah relates to, may be another question. I certainly have found it interesting that 4, and perhaps a 5th "Object" does now appear evident in some of the photographs. Certainly all of this is drawing our much needed attention to the sun, which is in a major storm of a crisis, and we should be alert, and make as much integrated use of it as possible.

CREDITS: I would like to thank the Falcaneli Scientists: the Hermetic Grand Order (non-Masonic) for first alerting me to these "objects" in June and July, 1998. I would like to thank Ptah for the input, the Millennium Group who first drew my attention to some of their photographs, as well as Orbit, who relayed some fine research on the web. Later I discovered that Robert Ghost Wolf had also made a presentation on the Art Bell show in early 1999, and lastly I discovered Liz Edwards work. It now appears that she was the first one to press focus on these images. But not the Time Gate 1996 photographs, they were entirely my own research work on Ptah's prodding. I would also like to thank Emmanuel for all that they have given me, and these photographs my bear out some of the revelations they made in 1989. I should also herein thank NASA for keeping these photographs on the WWW, and acknowledge their service for having put the probe and camera's up there, in the first place, so that we could discover this potential wonderous companions to the sun.
