ANANDA: PROPHET OR DREAMER?

WIL VAN GEMERT

Is there a connection between secret societies, our brain circuits and Mother Earth's electromagnetic matrix? Is there an identifiable relationship between UFOs, mind-control, New Age and the "galactic wave of photons"? We are supposed to be approaching? If we are a "projection of our DNA, what is the source of light? And can we then reprogram our reality? How can we anticipate the drastic changes in this era?

Such thought-provoking reflections are awakened by the discourse of a passionate young man, who, with wide-ranging knowledge and an infectious charisma that bears witness to loving inspiration, is able to offer perspectives that give our dozing gray cells something to do again.

Before reporting on the encounter, which shimmers with love, light and information, but which also appeals to the utmost stretching power of one's mind, the reader is asked to fasten the safety straps of the reading armchair properly. We immediately transcend the daily news level to take note of an interpretation of the world stage that is both miraculous and baffling. Conspiracy theories proliferate. Every turn of the century may be accompanied by speculation about important upheavals, but "from well-informed circles" we learn that this time the rug will really be pulled out from under our daily lives and perhaps turned into a flying carpet.

Ananda (24), verbal performance for audience of four days, by which the flag of our lives turn into a flying carpet.

On December 21, 2013, the Mayan calendar ends. Why? The intriguing scenario for our time possesses widely varying references such as Hopi predictions, Nostradamus, Edgar Cayce, Leonardo Da Vinci, Rudolf Steiner, revelations of John, Egyptian hieroglyphics, Teilhard de Chardin, Roerich's Shambhala, and so on. Ananda (24) lives in the rugged no-man's-land of Norway and travels extensively throughout Europe to give workshops and maintain his contacts with an extensive underground network of friends, scientists, psychonauts, UFOlogists, NASA advisors, inventors, Lamas, high-ranking government and military officials, journalists, pioneers in barely-named categories, and so on. Ananda embodies a new contemporary vibration and the finds himself compelled to inspire others with his "DNA transmission". Although his range of consciousness provides him with an ocean of information, he does not fall to thoughts of his own greatness, but rather, he is called the "interdimensional" or "ultra-terrestrial" and are making it clear to us what essence is at stake for us humans in the coming years and what the real motivations are behind the display that governments and mass media are putting before us.

But first, let us consider some of the concepts of Ananda's palette a little more closely:

Density/Dimension: In Ananda's classification, these concepts are interchangeable, but strictly speaking there is a difference besides the strong connection. Density represents the degree of density of matter, of the world around us. That degree of density is determined by the speed of electron orbits around the nucleus of an atom. There are seven orbits for electrons and as the electron gets closer to the nucleus, their frequency increases and the matter becomes more rarefied. Our field of sensory perception is limited to our everyday world and takes place in the third density. If we were to expand (slow down and/or speed up) the spectrum of our consciousness, we would also have experiences in the other vibrational regions, or in other words, in "other dimensions".

Rainbow universes: A density can be compared to a color of the rainbow, and the whole spectrum of realities consists of seven colors or seven octaves, densities, dimensions. Those colors diverge from a prism irradiated by the central sun.

Interdimensional: A being with the ability to travel through all spectra of matter by being able to vary atomic density with will. Such an "interdimensional" can thus physically manifest itself in all the colors of the rainbow, in all the universes of the various dimensions.

Photons: are the subatomic particles of light of which there are - according to Ananda - many thousands orbiting in an electron. Their orbital velocity increases as the electron gets closer to the nucleus of the atom.

Light Body: Adam Kadmon, the original robe of light from which the fall of man into dust began. When we have a chance to transform to a higher vibrational number, we obtain a thinner atomic density, and this is accompanied by a greater emission of photons, so that we are thus being to give light. The designation light body is often applied to an interdimensional aspect of ourselves and what the real motivations are behind the display that governments and mass media are putting before us.

Time as perspective: The perception of time is a genetic programming that takes place in our perception of cause and effect, or the illusion of polarities. From the perspective of the sun, however, the seven colors of the rainbow, the dimensions, exist simultaneously. From our solar self, we simultaneously project ourselves into all these varieties of atomic density. From our third density or the color yellow, the second dimension, orange, is the path and the fourth dimension is the closest, green, the future.

All-Oneness: All the various manifestations of consciousness in the universes of the rainbow converge and become one in the sun which, if desired, can in turn be seen as manifesting in a ray converging in the subsequent prism with a more central sun. Ultimately everything arises from and comes together in the same source. That ultimate source is also called the Christ-Self or the Solar-Self or the "Radiant One," and so on.

The Confederation: Serving the one radiant Creator or brotherhood of light, also called the Christ Brotherhood. These entities, manifestations of group consciousness/oversouls, interdimensional or ultra-terrestrial recognize the one infinite Creator (or all and nothingness together and much more to the infinite and incomprehensible). They make themselves subservient to the reunification of all that is one. This is in contrast to the goal of Lucifer or the brotherhood of darkness which seeks to create and maintain its own separate reality.

Now that these concepts have been explained, an exciting narrative can begin. Of course, it is best to take this not very commonplace view of world events as being a fanciful tale of a young man who has fallen on his forehead. Keep in mind, however, that Ananda is not only one with such encounters and stories, and there is an overwhelming load of documentation at hand (soon to be published in Ananda's book: The Alien Presence; the result of his diligent foraging over the last four years).

Do extraterrestrials form the oldest political party?

Recently there were protests in front of the White House in Washington against the secrecy surrounding UFOs. Today several dozen TV programs in the USA report all sorts of oddities related to extraterrestrial contacts. After all, since 1991, strict government restrictions have been removed. Therefore, we may assume that it will not be very long before CNN will present a well-prepared world UFO show. But let's step back for a moment.

The right side of our brain at the very beginning came to earth through the air in a "chakra", meaning a wheel within a wheel. Ten barely known Vedic books, the Viamana texts, describe precisely how such flying saucers, UFOs or "chakras" can be built. The ancient gods, including the Asuras (part human, part animal) possessed such technology, which is very similar to certain current George Adamski-type models. The most privileged among the royal elite of ancient India are said to have possessed such airships, but this was always kept secret. Nazi scholars are said to have been diligently searching for this flying technology in underground tunnel systems in which Aryan gods were believed to live. Apparently not without success, as photo and film material show Nazi test flights with saucers of the models referred to above.

An abundant amount of testimony and documents recount how the current U.S. government, among others, found or intercepted, counterfeited and tested such flying saucers. In this context, however, what is most interesting is not that technique but the pattern of interaction of gods with humans. Kings are believed to have blood ties with the gods, and the oldest mystery schools and secret societies are also believed to maintain direct contact with them. Ananda is not dismissive of the idea that the secret institutions and agreements are created by the gods themselves, because they are an instrument for covertly providing kings and leaders with laws and models according to which people were to be ruled. In The Gods of Eden, William Bramley describes how the gods have been involved with our worldly affairs since time immemorial. Their influence, they say, reaches further than we dare to suppose. This is possible because they govern the very top of the pyramid that has hidden from our view.

The Nephilim

Ananda is convinced that today's world stage is even more efficiently governed by secret societies under the invisible leadership of the Nephilim the fallen angels, the genetic masters otherwise known as the "Watchers". Even the most ancient of the eighteenth century, but in his time, he had been working on a carefully laid out scenario that should result in "The New World Order". According to him, there is most important secret weaving of societies and connections. The Netherlands plays its part in it through Prince Bernhard's role as founder of the Bilderberg group (in 1954). It is believed that the most ingenious bankers, politicians, media moguls and heads of the largest corporations are members of this private club. Leaked documents reveal the unimaginable power of the Bilderberg Group's central policy committee which includes David Rockefeller (of the powerful banking family). All decisions drafted by them have actually been implemented. Such a decision could include anything, such as a war in the Gulf or an economic crisis. The same David Rockefeller holds key positions in the so-called Council of Foreign Relations and a secret Trilateral Commission (Japan, North America and Western Europe, a cooperation to stabilize capitalism in the world) of which the vast majority of U.S. senators are members, as well as President Clinton. A complete overview requires a tome, but this brief summary gives an impression of the alleged power structure within which essential resources such as energy, food, money, media and weapons converge under unified management, ultimately, therefore, at the invisible top of the pyramid.

The dangerous fascination emanating from such an all-seeing eye would have been cunningly exploited by Adam Weischaup. He allegedly created the Bavarian Illuminati with Natan Rothschild (another famous name associated with big money). To this end, he capitalized on the Freemasons' belief that there would exist secret initiates above the 33rd degree, who would contact non-elect on their own initiative. Through Weischaup's new code words and secret handshakes, one was initiated into the Illuminati from that level without having sight of the top, and thus to be devoted to Lucifer. This devious strategy allegedly sought to infiltrate all European courts to lay a foundation for an "invisible world government". Ananda has no doubt that positive change cannot come from the established order because it is now in the hands of the Illuminati all over the world and thus the ancient gods pulling the strings from their secret abode which he believes is located in the inner Swiss Alps.

Ananda's view of an alleged conspiracy.

Food for gods

Surely this incredible story, with the reader having to endure some black clouds before the secret scenarios through again, now raises a burning question: What on earth are "they" up to? This question about their intentions has become especially oppressive when you know what sinister scenarios have been put into work by the Illuminati, for example in the Shikany New Essential World Solutions newsletter from Ananda and many others on the subject of "Hiller & Co." would have been financed by the Rothschilds, Rockefeller and the Morgans. ...

flourishing drinking water which hardens not only the teeth but also the bones, blood vessels and especially the brain with docile minds as a consequence. Two tablets a day are recommended, it says today in our toddlers' growth chart. ...

the planning, as early as the Ananda, of pesticides and other poisons to genetically weaken the human species and the abilities of the brain. These three examples, according to Ananda, can be extended to a long list but even then, a normal sentient being wouldn't understand anything about their intentions. One does not believe in them as all inhuman. That is precisely where the problem lies. Only if you put yourself in a supposedly superior perspective, where we humans are regarded as a rabbit infestation, can you imagine that such a nefarious plan would be forged as deliberately spreading a disease like AIDS. ...

Once on such a line of thought, it is obvious that the desired subversion must be supported by exploiting that fact that people are co-creators of their reality. This goes as follows: because reality is largely determined by what manages to hold people's attention, it is enough to throw the right ball into the mass media. They then take care of the snowball effect, rather the mudball effect. The people themselves will now start working hard to feed self-destructive self-fulfilling prophecies. Everyone becomes convinced of the deadly danger. Then the time is ripe for the launch of the story that the virus can even move through the air. This dramatic twist will manage to turn all people's attention into a gigantic wave of fear. After all, and then can be fatal. ...

An abundant amount of testimony and documents recount how the current U.S. government, among others, found or intercepted, counterfeited and tested such flying saucers. In this context, however, what is most interesting is not that technique but the pattern of interaction of gods with humans. ## Our DNA as a mathematical equation

A more abstract approach to the human drama, which at first glance has nothing to do with the account outlined above, Ananda sees it as follows: The codes of your DNA formulate a mathematical equation, the outcome of which is, of course, already fixed, but in his time, he had been working on a carefully laid out scenario that should result in "The New World Order". According to him, there is most important secret weaving of societies and connections. The Netherlands plays its part in it through Prince Bernhard's role as founder of the Bilderberg group (in 1954). It is believed that the most ingenious bankers, politicians, media moguls and heads of the largest corporations are members of this private club. Leaked documents reveal the unimaginable power of the Bilderberg Group's central policy committee which includes David Rockefeller (of the powerful banking family). All decisions drafted by them have actually been implemented. Such a decision could include anything, such as a war in the Gulf or an economic crisis. The same David Rockefeller holds key positions in the so-called Council of Foreign Relations and a secret Trilateral Commission (Japan, North America and Western Europe, a cooperation to stabilize capitalism in the world) of which the vast majority of U.S. senators are members, as well as President Clinton. A complete overview requires a tome, but this brief summary gives an impression of the alleged power structure within which essential resources such as energy, food, money, media and weapons converge under unified management, ultimately, therefore, at the invisible top of the pyramid.

Surely, this premise again makes the connection between our DNA and the above story "food for gods". It also makes the connection to the "All-Oneness", a central concept in the message of Shikany New Essential World Solutions newsletter from Ananda and many others on the subject of "Hiller & Co." would have been financed by the Rothschilds, Rockefeller and the Morgans. ...

the frequency that is eventually recorded in amino acids and enzymes in the DNA. We can think of the sixth circuit as a genetic archive, also known by such appellations as the Akashic records (esotericism), the collective unconscious (Jung), the morphogenetic field (Rupert Sheldrake). With an opened sixth circuit, you are aware of the elements and symbols with which you construct your self systems. In halucinations you recognize what the building blocks of your own thought processes, your self-image and your personality. Because the nervous system is aware of itself here, the possibility opens up for you to begin to influence what is constantly being requested and transported in the archive. This is an extremely important finding because in this way the codes of the DNA can be reprogramed and, in other words, they have access to the holographic projection or mathematical equation that we actually are. The concentrate it is a programmer and is rarely opened.

A prolonged stay in a well-insulated floatation or samadhi tank produces the desired results for some, as the nervous system has the chance to enter into a program on itself. When the pineal gland secretes the neurotransmitter harmaline, the sixth circuit is stimulated. A week-long retreat in an absolutely dark room can accomplish this.

Ananda organizes such seven-day sessions in which in combination with food supplements, sound, breathing and meditation techniques stunning results are achieved. The body initially reacts with severe depression to the deprivation of even the slightest glimmer of light and it is therefore advisable not to experiment thoughtlessly.

Our history towards a green future, according to Ananda

The secret of our brain

Ananda classifies eight different brain circuits, four on each side of the head, and their functions we can understand as being the result of our sub personalities. We start with the left side. The brain secretes dopamine, which provides a pleasant comfortable feeling. This bio-survival circuit is aimed at sustaining the organism with reflexes to self-protection as soon as threatening situations arise. This circuit is greatly overstimulated in the heroin addict who temporarily experiences the maternal warmth but a little later also experiences the cold and hard opposite. Habits such as nail-biting and cigarette-oversucking also echo the comfort of the mother's breast, from which feeding is derived in moments of indecision, for example.

The second circuit is related to the two-year-old toddler who begins to recognize his domain and express his emotional and physical territory. A person may feel at ease or weak in this as can be seen when this circuit is reinforced by the use of alcohol.

The third circuit becomes active at the stage when our mind begins to function as an intelligent, independent unit. Through this circuit we acquire an intellectual understanding of the world, and someone strong in this tends to plan life logically for the next ten years in advance. This hormone is caffeine, the stimulant, and cocaine.

The fourth circuit involves social, sexual identity. One is aware of playing a role that is mistaken for the self. This role demands fulfillment and is thus constantly being nurtured. When this happens to a high degree, we speak of an egocentric person. Of a range of herbal stimulants, ginseng, in small amounts, is the best known.

The fifth circuit provides neuro-somatic bliss to more and more people today. A feeling of delight and harmony fills the whole body, everything is love and you want everyone to experience it. This circuit is the first on the right, opposite the bio-survival circuit, and the essential difference is that the first four circuits only "read" or "play" the DNA while circuits 5 through 8 can also "write" or "store" the DNA and thus reprogram it. Now suppose you find yourself in a threatening robbery. Immediately the survival reflex in the first circuit take over and you scream or run away. From the fifth circuit you would be able to react in a totally different way and then even express your love, for example. You can do something but surely program the other left circuits from the neurotransmitter serotonin that enhances the sensitivity of the whole body and initiates waves of bliss.

The sixth circuit is related to the two-year-old toddler who begins to recognize his domain and express his emotional and physical territory. A person may feel at ease or weak in this as can be seen when this circuit is reinforced by the use of alcohol.

The seventh brain circuit Ananda calls a metaprogrammer. It is the seat of the soul. Here consciousness becomes conscious of itself as being consciousness and also that consciousness is conscious of.... and just like that through to infinity!

You contemplate one thing and at the same time the contemplator. You can mirror your brain, as it were, into the next brain that becomes aware of something else again, for example, and so on. In this book, let us trace the impact of extraterrestrials with their divide-and-conquer strategies through secret societies from the earliest times to the present.

Propets that you can understand only at the level of the seventh circuit. You know/experience with the soul here. From your seventh circuit you have access to all dimensions and thus to all times. Imphuses have often caught flashes of the future through the seventh circuit and sometimes it communicates with us in conjunction with symbols of the sixth circuit, through our dreams. When you tune in to your future you make contact in the fourth dimension with a group of individuals, in the sixth with an entire civilization, in the sixth with what is usually called your higher self, and in the seventh dimension you are in contact with your group soul. The fully opened seventh circuit, in conjunction with the sixth provides access to all bandwidths in all times and all atomic densities. The eighth circuit is experienced by quite a few people when they step out of their bodies during their near-death experiences or under narcotics, or under anesthesia. The eighth circuit represents the oversoul of consciousness and genetic consciousness and is often referred to as the higher self. It is separate from the body but has a center in the brain. The consciousness makes direct contact with other consciousnesses. From the project a oversoul it is possible to copy the codes and then direct the flow of life there. Then you can feed a whole crowd with the code of a piece of bread. If desired, you can walk through walls or the world's population. On the contrary, they wanted to be helpful in our spiritual development. In their view, it is precisely the strong tilt toward materialism that is the source of all further problems. The confederation, which will respect our free will at all times, pointed out the need to start applying the laws of harmony, brotherhood and unconditional love.

In February 1954, Eisenhower met with the so-called 54-12 committee headed by Nelson Rockefeller. (Among other things, this family would run the pharmaceutical world, focused on profits from treatment of disease as opposed to prevention.) This group had huge sums at stake in nuclear developments. At that, Eisenhower informed the confederates that the world was not ready for their spiritual education program. The ultra-terrestrials replied that they would then approach individuals from all over the world. This is said to have happened in thousands by now and would be happening on a much larger scale. Ananda claims to have met several of them.

Reality computers give hairy

The reader who has made it to this point but still finds it simply "too much of a good thing" would do better not to expose the still-functioning brain circuits to the absurdity of a snippet of the near-future agenda, in which disruption of DNA codes is clearly to be ruled out.

- increase in the forecast of low-frequency waves (ELF and VLF) to counteract the awakening of the higher circuits by the neutrino sun;
- encounters with the interdimensionals that are totally transforming and help you a lot on your way to your light body;
- airborne holographic projections of the 144,000 exalted masters and "additions to reality" using tangible technology to lead us astray;
- the forming of groups of individuals around the world capable of connecting the new electromagnetic matrix to the earth (as a wedding ring between heaven and earth);
- mass welcomes at airports from "our creators" who know how to sell their questionable genetic practices well with convincing "film footage" of Jesus Christ as a "freelancer" in their service;
- letting go of your karma by surrendering to your true Sun-King or Christ-Self.

...and many more fascinating reflections of your DNA codes being stirred by the birth of Mother Earth in the next dimension. Will she turn in the other direction and will we have a prolonged darkness or, on the contrary, will a long sleep come to an end with the dawn of the New Age in the golden light of love leading to a world orgasm? Either way, no one need be bored in these times.

Ananda says that the lighting will want to meet anyone who actually demonstrates the New Age to be ready for it, by meeting them halfway. That means jettisoning your personal ballast, for then you can harness and anchor the energy of the ever-strengthening new matrix, without the blockages in your various bodies burning out like fuses. In other words, open your higher brain circuits through the inner path and realize your true divine identity.
